Phishing Higher Education

- November 2014- According to a public advisory issued by the Research and Education Networking Information Sharing and Analysis Center , universities and colleges have been "targeted by phishing campaigns designed to steal user credentials for many years." The stolen credentials are used for many reasons, including "sending spam from compromised e-mail accounts, gaining access to university-licensed resources, and hosting malware."
- Various FBI Alerts 2014 - The Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) is aware of multiple scams targeting universities, university employees, and students across the nation. The scams range from Internet fraud to intrusions. Phishing e-mails are being sent to university employees that appear to be from their employer.
- September 2014 - The University of Akron warned people using its email service Monday not to click on an email alerting them that their inbox is too full and is bouncing incoming mail.

ACH & Wire Transfer Fraud on the Rise

- Do not respond to emails or popups that asks for account or ID information of any kind regarding your bank or credit union accounts or debit or credit card accounts.
- A separate and isolated computer should be used for ACH and wire transfer transactions.
- All other browser tabs should be closed and the browser and internet connection closed immediately after any online financial transactions particularly ACH or wire transfer.
- Set dollar limits with the bank for all transfers, ACH and wire transfer activity and set alerts for immediate automatic notification if offered.
- Review and reconcile all financial activity in the account no less than monthly and the reconciliation should be done timely.
- Be very careful using debit cards which access your bank account directly. You have much more exposure using a debit card that a credit card.
- Do not use public wi-fi locations for financial transactions.

Fraud Trends – Higher Education

Procurement Cards & Internet Purchases

Be cautious with online vendors that you do not recognize.

Online vendors should use the URL https:// with the “s” which means “secure site”.

Be careful when you fax your pcard number to a vendor. Verify the fax number before faxing and destroy (shred) the fax sheet with the pcard number.

Fraud Trends – Higher Education

- Procurement Cards & Internet Purchases (cont)

Do your homework and research vendors you do not know.

Look for online merchants who are members of a seal-of-approval program that sets voluntary guidelines for privacy-related practices, such as TRUSTe (www.truste.org), Verisign (www.verisign.com), or BBBonline (www.bbbonline.org).

NOTE: Be careful with Amazon Marketplace vendors and check those out carefully. Particularly new vendors on Marketplace.

No guarantee that if a vendor has all these things that fraud could not occur but does help reduce the risk. Always be cautious with internet purchases.

Check the pcard statement every month for fraud charges.
Credit card fraud with Internet purchases is a growing trend.

Question – Fraud Trends

Why is chip technology more secure than magnetic strip technology with credit cards?

(Hint: magnetic strip technology is 1960's era technology)

Answer – Fraud Trends

- Chip cards are more difficult to “clone”.
(magnetic strip cards can be scanned or copied).
- The data on a chip card is encrypted.
- Chip technology has been in other countries for years---coming to U.S. by October 2015 (maybe?) (The merchant has to have a chip scanner for a customer to use a chip card)
- Chip cards can be PIN based or signature based. Most U.S. chip cards will be signature based initially. A few U.S. banks are issuing PIN based chip cards.

Top 3 Technology Tips From FBI Cyber Security Division

These are the top 3 exposures from the data breaches currently in media reports.

1. Think and pause before you click anything in any email. Best policy is to not click anything if you are in doubt.
2. Use 12 to 15 character passwords (mix of upper case, lower case and special characters) or use pass phrases. Do not use the same password for all your applications.
3. Use multi factor authentication if your application offers that feature (such as Facebook, LinkedIn, Gmail, Yahoo mail, hotmail, etc.)

To Report Suspected Fraud

Options for reporting fraud at the University include:

1. Telling your supervisor.
2. Notifying a University Official

NOTE: Go to a Supervisor or University Official first – If possible.

3. Contacting Internal Audit at 678-2124 or UoM_audit@memphis.edu or use the online form on the Internal Audit website.
