Dan Pallme is the Assistant Chief of Freight and Logistics at the Tennessee Department of Transportation. In his role, he provides leadership on issues of rail, water and highway freight. The division serves as a liaison between TDOT and freight stakeholders in an effort to find opportunities to improve access for existing freight and appropriately prepare for the projected increases in freight as it moves in and out of the state. The primary focus areas for the division include water, short-line railroads, Section 130 rail program, rail inspection, highway freight and technology, freight advisory committees, freight planning and the freight and state rail plan updates.

He spent his entire career focused in the transportation sector. He is truly multi-modal with his 30 plus year career spanning several modes. He has worked for Federal Express (air), Yellow Freight System (LTL), Union Pacific Railroad (rail), and Comtrak Logistics (Intermodal / Truckload). After his private sector experience, he spent 5 years at the Intermodal Freight Transportation Institute at the University of Memphis on various research projects relating to freight issues throughout the United States.

He received his Bachelors from the University of Memphis in transportation and a Masters from the University of Denver in Intermodal Transportation Management.

Dewayne Swindall began his railroad career as a Conductor in Birmingham, Alabama with Norfolk Southern (NS) in the 90's assuming his first Trainmaster role at Norris Yard in 1999 being one of the rare, in place promotions, within Norfolk Southern at that time. During this role, Swindall was one of the initial Remote Control Operator instructors when remote locomotive use was introduced in the hump classification process. In 2004, as Sr. Trainmaster in Chicago, IL, Swindall accepted a position with a competitor railroad, Canadian National (CN), in Jackson Mississippi, ultimately moving into a more progressive role in Geismar, LA the following year. In 2005, Swindall was promoted to Assistant Superintendent in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada overseeing hump classification at Walker Yard. In 2007, he was sent to Southern Ontario as the Assistant Superintendent of the Southern Ontario Division.

In the summer of 2008, Swindall was recruited to Genesee & Wyoming, one of the largest regional and short line operators, ultimately holding the position of Senior Vice President of the Central, covering thirteen states and seventeen individual railroad operations.

In January 2018, Swindall returned to CN in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada as Superintendent in the Network Operations Centre, subsequently assuming the Superintendent role of the Midsouth Division a few months later in Memphis, TN. In September 2018, Swindall was promoted to his current position of General Manager Gulf Region covering the original Illinois Central properties from Gilman, IL to the Gulf of Mexico.
